

A sacred place to be, and to become people of hope, compassion, justice, and service.

A Place at the Table For ALL of us: Using Your Community and Connections to Build Strength For People With and Without Disabilities

Janice, Rich, Micah, Emma Fialka-Feldman and Shaun & Wes Nethercott

April 21, 2017 to April 23, 2017

Come for a Day or Come for the Weekend!

Pay What You Will!

Make friends, tell stories, build advocacy skills, learn about new resources--and have fun! Become a stronger advocate for your family, your clients, and yourself, then create a Connections Storybook. Sessions will take place Friday 5-9pm, Saturday: 9am-9pm, and Sunday: 9am-12noon.

Please bring a photo or drawing of yourself, as well as a photo or drawing of a favorite family activity, to be put in your Family Connections Storybook.

You'll learn how to

- Strengthen your circles of support
- Seek help more effectively
- Identify new resources
- Explore how families can move from protector to guide

Audience

People with disabilities, families, friends, personal assistants, staff who support people with disabilities, professionals--- anyone who wants to strengthen their knowledge and ability to advocate to create a world where ALL BELONG and contribute based on strengths and respect.

Presenters:

Janice Fialka, Rich Feldman, Emma Fialka-Feldman, and Micah Fialka-Feldman, longtime disability culture activists, authors, and national presenters and the family featured in the recently published book, What Matters: Reflections on Disability, Community and Love. The Fialka-Feldman family will share their "lessons learned" and what values and actions have guided their journey supporting Micah to live a meaningful, inclusive life, Emma, a second grade teacher, will share effective ways to support the learning of a child with a disability and the critical role of families.
